CSR Accreditation

PART 1 - An Introduction to CSR & CSR-A

Corporate Social Responsibility
as a Strategic Tool

CSR Accreditation (CSR-A) have established a new standard and framework for social responsibility that allows organisations to define, measure and report relevant activity.

This framework will ultimately deliver a CSR Accreditation, data for ESG reporting, identify relevant activity corresponding to the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, increase stakeholder engagement and provide powerful brand reputation benefits. The framework is designed around the CSR Four Pillars of Environment, Workplace, Community and Philanthropy.

The CSR Accreditation application process allows for private, third and public sector organisations of every size to record, develop and deliver impact and purpose. Ultimately CSR Accreditation shapes policy that can be developed to support an ongoing social responsibility strategy which should be integrated into every business strategy.

CSR Accreditation provides independent recognition of an organisation's socially responsible activities. It is a powerful way to communicate these positive actions to all audiences and stakeholders. Customers and clients want to trust organisations that they engage with. Employees want to work for values-driven employers and investors want to know that an organisation is addressing it's social and ethical responsibilities.

It is clear that organisations who understand their social responsibilities and explore ways in which to integrate them into strategy will reap the rewards of enhanced competitive positions. Ultimately these strategies will benefit all stakeholders and wider society.

Managing Director CSR-A

1.0 An Introduction to CSR & CSR-A

Contents

Please familiarise yourself with all four sections of this document. It contains vital tools and information for the composition of your CSR Accreditation application!

The guidance contains essential information to help you through the process of application and provides vital activity lists, categorised by the Four Pillars on the types of activity that are required for successful applications. CSR-A applies a 'blank canvas' approach to applications and you are encouraged to include all and any information on CSR activity that is outside of the experience described here. We are very interested in any unique or innovative activity so please make sure you include it in the 'Other' section provided at the end of the application form.

1.1 What is Corporate Social Responsibility Accreditation?

Good CSR policies drive positive corporate change. Supported by well defined objectives and measurable targets, the efforts you make toward your CSR Accreditation application will provide the foundations for ongoing policy for integration into business strategy, ensuring a sustainable and ethical organisation.

Organisations and their stakeholders, are now aware of the essential nature and intrinsic benefits of socially responsible behaviour.

An organisation's activity in relation to the society in which it operates and its impact on the environment have become a critical part of the measurement of overall performance and ultimately affects whether it can continue to operate effectively. Organisations are now subject to greater scrutiny by their various stakeholder groups and by society at large.

The ultimate aim is to achieve a positive impact on society as a whole while maximising the creation of shared value for all stakeholders.

CSR Accreditation examines all the impacts an organisation has on the environment, society and stakeholders, providing the information you require to mitigate risk and plan for future sustainability and growth.

A CSR Accreditation should be used to:

- Deliver the information required for ESG (Environmental Social Governance) reporting for tendering and investment.

- Identify any United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDG's) which you may wish to support.

- Write a Social Value policy.

- Reduce negative impact across all Four Pillars

- Produce a Social Impact Report.

- Enrich, enable and engage employees, shareholders and stakeholders.

A report by Social Enterprise UK has revealed that one third of councils in England now routinely consider social value and Corporate Social Responsibility in their procurement and commissioning briefs.

1.2 Why Achieve CSR Accreditation

Effective CSR policy has many advantages that apply to all organisations, regardless of size, purpose or sector.

In addressing social responsibility issues an organisation should first understand two vital relationships.

1. Between the organisation, the environment and society. All operational decisions, activities and processes impact on society and the environment.

2. Between the organisation and its stakeholders. An organisation should be aware of all its stakeholders ie. those whose interests are directly affected by the decisions, activities and processes of the organisation.

Positive corporate social responsibility policy improves an organisation's public image, reputation and relationship with consumers. It also improves its relationship with its employees and its wider range of stakeholders.

It's all about impacts.

Good impacts improve:

*   Consumer loyalty
*   End user loyalty
*   Staff loyalty
*   Referrals and brand visibility

Customers want to trust organisations they engage with. Employees want to work for values-driven employers and investors want to know that an organisation is addressing its ethical responsibilities.

It is amazing what we are already doing that we don't talk about. Most of us will have already implemented positive action in one or more of the CSR Four Pillars.

Achieving CSR Accreditation is a visible testimony of excellence in social responsibility policy and practice. The Accreditation enables you to better integrate social, environmental, ethical, human rights and consumer concerns into your business operations and strategy and provides you with a real competitive advantage.

Organisational Governance & CSR Accreditation

Organisational governance is the most crucial factor in enabling an organisation to take responsibility for its impacts. In today's climate of immediate social media reaction and heightened public awareness, it is vital that organisations avoid green/blue washing and demonstrate that they are doing what they say they are going to do.

The CSR Accreditation enables your organisation to focus and structure your CSR activities in a way that supports other mechanisms you may be required to engage, such as ESG reporting, Ecovardis and various other client bespoke tools.

1.3 Application & Accreditation
Overview

CSR Accreditation is the assessment of an organisation's CSR activity and requires that an organisation and its senior management is committed to maintaining acceptable standards during the three year period of Accreditation. Ideally senior management will drive, build and develop on good practice over the three year period and achieve re-accreditation at the end of the cycle.

The process of achieving CSR Accreditation begins with your own assessment of every aspect of your organisation's operations and activities in regard to social responsibility.

CSR Accreditation is available to any private, public or third sector organisation which can demonstrate a measurable 12 month period of CSR activity. Any organisation may apply for Accreditation, regardless of legal structure, whether it is an incorporated business, a sole trader/micro, partnership, public or third sector.

Organisations may apply for Accreditation in its entirety, as a particular site or branch of a larger entity or a division within an organisation.

Accreditation under the scheme for such organisations is conditional upon:

A comprehensive report of the policies, structures and actions regarding responsible business practice that the applicant has in place and has undertaken. All organisations submit an application structured around our Four Pillars of CSR (Section 2), with help from our Guidance Notes (Section 4.3) and the application Word document provided.

An organisation must demonstrate where possible that claims are genuine with the providence of evidence uploaded with the application. Evidence must be submitted in the requested formats (See Section 3.??).

Application Outcomes

The independent assessment panel will scrutinise the application and supporting evidence against the Guidance Notes (Section 4.3). Three members of the independent assessment panel will score the application. The scores from all three are calculated and the results inform CSR-A whether to award gold, silver or bronze Accreditation or provide gap analysis.

All successful applications will receive a Gold, Silver or Bronze Accreditation. Any applicants that are unsuccessful will receive a gap analysis report and a chance to re-apply for a nominal fee within a three month period.

Achieving CSR Accreditation recognises and endorses your organisation's actions in regard of CSR practices. The application document provides base data that can be built on to monitor and report your CSR activities and can be used as content for a Social Impact Report.

1.3.1 Application Process

1. Complete the simple stage 1 registration form on our website for free.

2. Download the Guidance for Accreditation and Word application form.

3. Familiarise yourself with the guidance. There's no need to read it all!

4. Collate all the relevant information you can find from individuals and departments within your organisation. We want to hear what you have been doing. This could include everything from on-site energy saving initiatives to sponsoring a local football team, programs, events, initiatives and projects in which you and your colleagues have been involved. Its amazing what we are already doing that we don't talk about!

5. Talk to colleagues, collect certifications, statistics and results. Collate evidence into up-loadable formats. Collect, examine and analyse data. Calculate savings both financial and in resources. Include relevant memberships and accreditations.

6. Format your findings into our Four Pillars of CSR using our supplied application Word document. Keep this document safe as it will form the basis of an ongoing social responsibility policy.

7. Once you have completed your Word application and collated all your evidence, return to our website and fill in the online application form. Upload your application Word document into the online form and upload your labelled and collated evidence.

8. Retain your application Word document and evidence for future reference.

9. Let our independent assessment panel do the rest.

10. You will be informed of the results via email. Results may be accompanied by gap analysis if you failed to become Accredited.

11. Receive your CSR Accreditation Mark and promotional pack, all the benefits of membership and competitive advantage that Accreditation provides.

1.3.3 Accreditation Process

The independent assessment panel will review your application document and supporting evidence. All applications are assessed by 3 panel members. The panel are guided by the Independent Assessment Guidance Notes (Section 3.1) to score an application.

The assessment panel is totally independent of CSRA. They are selected because of their appropriate knowledge, their professional backgrounds and relevant experience.

The application process is not a 'tick box' exercise. You do not need to show activity in every one of the Four Pillars to submit a successful application. Invariably organisations differ greatly in the strength of activity in each Pillar.

The activity lists found in Section 2 "The Four Pillars of CSR' are intended as suggestions to stimulate thinking and elicit information. The independent assessment panel are keen to hear about any original process or thinking by organisations and are encouraged to score bonus points for this type of activity. This differentiates CSR-A from other measurement tools.

The independent assessment panel meets every 10 weeks to assess applications meaning that you are only ever 10 weeks from CSR Accreditation.

Scoring Applications

1. Applications scoring 80+% of full marks will be awarded Gold status.

2. Applications scoring 65-79% of full marks will be awarded Silver status

3. Applications scoring 50-64% of full marks will be awarded Bronze status

Any applicants that are unsuccessful will receive a gap analysis report on their application and a chance to re-apply within three months incurring only a nominal administration fee.

The CSR Accreditation cycle lasts for three years. Organisations must re-apply for assessment at the end of this three year cycle. The application fee for Accredited members is discounted by 10%.

1.4 The Benefits of Accreditation

Better brand recognition:

Improve your brand reputation to all of your audiences through delivering responsible practices throughout your organisation, the communities in which you exist and your supply chain.

Positive brand reputation:

Building a reputation as a responsible organisation will lead to competitive advantage.

Customer/Client engagement:

CSR Accreditation will help you engage with your customers in new ways. The message is about something 'good', so is an easier way to talk to your customers. Organisations often favour suppliers who have responsible policies, as this will reflect on how their customers see them. Some customers don't just prefer to deal with responsible companies – they insist on it.

Employee engagement:

Employees want to feel proud of the organisation they work for and are less likely to look for a job elsewhere. Accreditation shows an emotional investment that enriches the quality of our lives by delivering social value and purpose. It reduces absenteeism and improves productivity.

Become an employer of choice

CSR activities will help forge a stronger bond between employee and employer, activity will boost morale and will help both employees and employers feel more connected with each other and the world around them. An organisation that delivers social value is aligning their values to those of the next generation.

Investment:

Investors are more likely to be attracted to and continue to support organisations that demonstrate a commitment to the environment, to stakeholders and to the communities in which they exist. Accreditation informs ESG Reporting and other measurement tools.

Environment:

Show how your organisation is minimising negative environmental impact, conserving resources, saving energy and reducing waste.

Tendering Trends:

A robust approach to social responsibility will give you an advantage in the tender process. It is now common place to be scored on your Social Responsibility performance when tendering for both public and private projects.

PR and Marketing:

CSR Accreditation provides the perfect opportunity to share positive stories online and through traditional media.

PART 2 - The Four Pillars of CSR

2.0 The Four Pillars of CSR

Contents

2.0 The Four Pillars Overview

The Four Pillars are designed to add structure to a wide range of socially responsible activities that an organisation can engage in. This structure allows activities to be identified, categorised and measured.

Use the CSR-A Four Pillars structure in conjunction with the Independent Assessment Panel Guidance Notes & Criteria to help you when composing your application. You may identify practices that are not shown on the Four Pillars activity lists. Please include anything you consider relevant. We are interested in any and all activity which demonstrates benefit to the environment, your workforce and the local and wider community. Carry out a gap analysis to identify areas that need addressing. Along with reporting on what you are already doing, the Independent Assessment Panel are interested in plans for future activity.

Environment Pillar

Focuses on eco-issues such as the mitigation of climate change, energy conservation, waste and re-cycling and carbon footprint.

Community Pillar

Focuses on how organisations provide support for communities. Community involvement engages staff in a meaningful way.

Workplace Pillar

Focuses on policy and activity that improves working conditions and addresses work life balance for employees and their families. It also encompasses ethical products and services and customer/client care issues.

Philanthropy Pillar

Support for charities through volunteering, donation, sponsorship or other means. The Community and Philanthropy Pillars have some overlap. It is left up to the applicant organisation to decide which Pillar is relevant.

2.1 Environment Pillar

The decisions and activities of organisations invariably have an impact on the environment no matter where they are located. These impacts may be associated with the organisation's use of resources, the activities of the organisation, the generation of pollution and wastes, and the impacts of the organisation's activities on natural habitats. To reduce environmental impacts, organisations should adopt an integrated approach that takes into consideration the direct and indirect economic, social, health and environmental implications of their decisions and activities.

Environmental Activities List - Overview

Environmental - Energy

- Low energy heating, ventilation, and air conditioning systems.
- Renewable energy and green technologies.
- LED Lighting or low energy lights.
- Low energy heating, waste heat recovery or combined heat and power systems.
- Low flow plumbing, touch free taps, grey water and rainwater harvesting.
- Long service life ventilation and air conditioning units and energy recovery solutions.
- Recycling, responsible disposal and up-cycling of office equipment.
- Low carbon buildings, steel fabrication and modular construction.
- Behavioural measures and good housekeeping practices.
- Employee engagement in energy efficiency.
- Energy saving awareness campaigns in the workplace.
- Climate change mitigation and adaptation policy.

Environmental - Natural Resources

- Do you have a water saving policy?
- Water efficient toilets, kitchens - aerators, dual flush toilets, water meters.
- Reduced dependence on fossil fuels.
- Greenhouse gas reduction - building insulation, more efficient appliances and boilers
- Behavioural measures - switching off lights and appliances, turning down thermostats.
- Improved biodiversity - promoting the diversity of habitats and species at premises and/or in the wider community.
- Sustainable resource use - recycled paper, refillable printer cartridges, fair trade suppliers.

Environmental - Travel

- Does your organisation have a travel policy in place?
- Minimising business travel - through use of technology and/or best practice.
- Teleconferencing and digital meeting platforms.
- Low carbon driving incentives such as hybrid and electric vehicles.
- Promoting hybrid, electric and low carbon vehicles available through fleet and/or staff company car scheme.

- Sustainable motoring infrastructure - installing charge points for electric vehicles.
- The Government's Cycle to Work Scheme - government tax exemption initiative introduced in the Finance Act 1999.
- Car sharing schemes.
- Commuting plans - remote working and flexible hours, commuters clubs.
- Work from home days.
- Clean air initiatives - waste and recycling consolidation, streamlining deliveries.

Environmental - Supply Chain Management

- Does you have a sustainable supply chain policy?
- Do you monitor your supplier chain - motivate suppliers, work collaboratively?
- Reduce product miles - source local suppliers, streamline supplier activity.
- Monitor baseline performance with suppliers.
- Develop collaborative training and capacity building programmes.

Environmental - Waste

- Do you have a waste management policy?
- Do you recycle paper and card?
- Do you recycle, repair, reuse office equipment - furniture, computers etc.?
- Do you source alternative materials to plastics?
- Do you have a zero waste to landfill policy?
- Food waste reduction - anaerobic digestion.
- Hazardous waste management - including but not limited to: Aerosols Adhesives Industrial Solvents Waste Electrical and Electronic equipment (WEEE) Fluorescent tubes Batteries Laboratory and Bulk Chemicals Acids Washings Rags, wipes, contaminated packaging Pharmaceuticals Paint Oil Asbestos Sanitary Waste.
- Prevention of pollution - discharges to water, waste management, use and disposal of toxic and hazardous chemicals, other identifiable forms of pollution.

2.1.1 Energy

Does your organisation have an environmental policy?
Do you implement and monitor energy saving initiatives?

All traditional energy sources have negative effects. But they differ enormously in their negative aspects. Fossil fuels are the dirtiest and most immediately dangerous to the environment. Nuclear energy sources are cleaner but carry the potential for disaster and have the inherent problem of hazardous waste disposal.

Sustainable energy is power which is able to be replenished within a human lifetime and so cause no long-term damage to the environment. Sustainable energy includes all renewable energy sources, such as hydroelectricity, biomass, geothermal, wind, wave, tidal and solar energies.

- Consider energy consumption in buildings - monitoring and low energy heating, ventilation, and air conditioning systems.
- Renewable energy and green technologies - where possible, incorporated into business practice, functions and premises.
- Lighting - such as LED and low energy lights.
- Heating - low energy, waste heat recovery or combined heat and power systems.
- Hot water usage - low flow plumbing, touch free taps, grey water and rainwater harvesting.
- Ventilation and air conditioning - long service life units and energy recovery.
- Office equipment - recycling, responsible disposal and up-cycling.
- Building Fabric - steel fabrication and modular construction.
- Low carbon buildings.
- Good housekeeping and people solutions.
- Employee engagement in energy efficiency.
- Energy saving awareness campaigns in the workplace.
- Climate change mitigation and adaptation.
- Carbon foot-printing: Does your organisation measure its carbon footprint? What statistics, KPIs and reductions have you made?
- Please show statistical data where available.

2.1.2 Natural Resources

Does your organisation have a policy for conserving natural resources?

Natural resources are materials from the Earth that are used to support life and meet people's needs. They include oil, coal, natural gas, metals, stone and sand and are naturally occurring on our planet. Other natural resources are air, sunlight, soil and water. Animals, birds, fish and plants can also be classified natural resources.

Natural resources are classified as potential, actual, reserve, or stock resources based on their stage of development. Natural resources are either renewable or non-renewable depending on whether or not they replenish naturally.

- Water efficient toilets, kitchens - aerators, dual flush toilets, installing water meters.
- Reduce dependence on oil and gas.
- Greenhouse gas reduction - building insulation, more efficient appliances and boilers, behavioural measures - switching off lights and appliances, turning down thermostats.
- Improved biodiversity - promoting the diversity of habitats and species within premises and in the wider community.
- Sustainable resource use - recycled paper, refillable printer cartridges, fair trade suppliers.

2.1.3 Travel

Does your organisation have a sustainable travel policy in place?

In this case travel refers to commuting to and from the place of work and any requirements such as travelling to and from meetings away from the place of work.

- Minimising business travel - through use of technology and/or best practice.
- Teleconferencing - Facetime, Skype and other digital meeting platforms.
- Low carbon driving incentives - hybrid and electric vehicles.
- Promoting hybrid, electric and low carbon vehicles available through fleet and/or staff company car scheme.
- Sustainable motoring infrastructure - installing charge points for electric vehicles.
- The Government's Cycle to Work Scheme - government tax exemption initiative introduced in the Finance Act 1999.
- Car sharing schemes.
- Commuting plans - remote working and flexible hours, commuter's clubs.
- Work from home days.
- Clean air initiatives - waste and recycling consolidation, streamlining deliveries.

2.1.4 Supply Chain Management

Does your organisation operate a sustainable supply chain policy?

A supply chain is defined as the entire process of making and selling commercial goods, including every stage from the supply of materials and the manufacture of the goods through to their distribution and sale. Successfully managing supply chains is essential to any company hoping to compete.

- Map your supplier chain - motivate suppliers, work collaboratively.
- Reduce product miles - source local suppliers, streamline supplier activity.
- Monitor baseline performance with suppliers.
- Develop training and capacity building programmes.

2.1.5 Waste

Does your organisation have a waste management policy?

Waste management is the activities and actions required to manage waste from its inception to its disposal. This includes the collection, transport, treatment and disposal of waste, together with monitoring and regulation of the waste management process.

There are four major categories of waste: municipal solid waste, industrial waste, agricultural waste and hazardous waste.

Waste management reduces the effect of waste on the environment, health, and so on. It can also help reuse or recycle resources, such as; paper, cans, glass, and so on. There are various type of waste management that include the disposal of solid, liquid, gaseous, or hazardous substances

As citizens of a society we have a responsibility to manage our waste sustainably. We can do this following the five R's of waste management: reduce, reuse, recycle, recover and residual management.

- Recycle paper and card.
- Recycle, repair, reuse office equipment - furniture, computers etc..
- Plastics - source alternative materials, repair, reuse, recycle.
- Have a zero waste to landfill policy.
- Have reducing, reusing, recycling policies.
- Food waste reduction - anaerobic digestion.
- Hazardous waste management - including but not limited to: Aerosols Adhesives Industrial Solvents Waste Electrical and Electronic equipment (WEEE) Fluorescent tubes Batteries Laboratory and Bulk Chemicals Acids Washings Rags, wipes, contaminated packaging Pharmaceuticals Paint Oil Asbestos Sanitary Waste.
- Prevention of pollution - discharges to water, waste management, use and disposal of toxic and hazardous chemicals, other identifiable forms of pollution.

2.2 Workplace Pillar

The relationship between a company and its employees has a big impact on the relationship between a company and its customers. Organisations should embrace workplace responsibility as an essential part of any business model. Employee values are rapidly changing and organisations must follow suit and match this strive for worth and sustainability. Embracing policy that nurtures and protects staff contributes to greater business success. Organisations should explore incorporating a holistic view of their strategies and reap the many benefits that this provides.

Workplace Activities List - Overview

- Healthcare benefits such as gym memberships etc.
- Customer Care - policy, processes and exceptional activities.
- Customer or consumer relationships - policy, processes and exceptional activities.
- Any other facilities that can help workers achieve a proper work-life balance.

2.2.1 Training

Do you provide staff development and investment opportunities, internal promotion initiatives, skills training? Have staff benefitted? Can initiatives be expanded? Have staff been engaged, included, trained or otherwise benefitted? Can this activity be evidenced through reporting , surveys and data? Can others adopt the procedures to their own benefit?

Organisations can use initiatives to increase social development by addressing important social concerns, such as fighting discrimination, balancing family responsibilities, promoting health and well-being and improving the diversity of their workforces. They can also use workplace training and initiatives to expand the employability of individuals. Experiences, competencies and qualifications all increase an individual's capacity to secure and retain satisfactory employment. This includes the process of expanding people's choices by widening human capabilities and functioning. To be educated to a proper standard and to have a satisfactory quality of life, therefore enabling people to lead long and healthy lives.

- Training - essential and developmental training.

- Apprenticeships - do you have an apprenticeship scheme?

- Leadership training - learning and development.

- Education - training schemes, employee advancement, skills training.

- Promotion prospects - promotions within existing staff, training, loyalty to staff.

- Work experience schemes - facilities and placements for pupils and students.

- Skills development - keeping staff trained in current techniques, technology and process.

2.2.2 Labour Practice

All practises and policies of an organisation, relating to work undertaken by, on behalf or within the organisation, including sub-contracted work are encompassed by labour practises. Labour practices have consequences beyond the relationships a company has with its employees or the responsibilities that it has at sites that are under its direct control.

Do you provide industrial relations mediation, protection of all labour and human rights, HR management, protection against bullying and harassment? Have staff benefitted? Can initiatives be expanded?

- Internal promotion of workers.

- Flexible working opportunities.

- Disciplinary and grievance procedures.

- The transfer and relocation of workers on termination of employment.

2.2.3 Ethical Practice

Organisations have a responsibility to act with due diligence to identify and prevent actual or potential human rights issues that result from their own practises or the practises of those with which they are engaged. Organisations also have a responsibility to influence the behaviour of others, if there is cause for concern over human rights violations in which the organisation may or may not be implicated.

Organisations should take a positive and constructive view of diversity among the people with whom it employs and interacts. It should consider the gains for its own operations in terms of the value added by the full development of human resources and relations.

Do you prioritise support for local suppliers, have a policy for sustainable/ethical procurement, customer and stakeholder engagement? Have stakeholders benefitted? Can initiatives be expanded?

- Responsible products and services.
- Corporate Citizenship - recognising rights, responsibilities and aspirations.
- Social Impact Reporting - recording your socially accountable activities for the benefit of your organisation, your stakeholders, and the wider community.
- Employee communication on social responsibility - promoting good practice.
- Ethical investment - support for companies that benefit the community and avoid those whose products and services or business practices are indifferent or harmful.
- Fair Trade - actively supporting producers, awareness raising and in campaigning for changes in the rules and practice of conventional international trade.
- Sustainable procurement - examination and implementation of positive supply chain.

2.2.4 Governance

Governance has been defined to refer to structures and processes that are designed to ensure accountability, transparency, responsiveness, rule of law, stability, equity and inclusiveness, empowerment, and broad-based participation. ... In the development literature, the term 'good governance' is frequently used.

Governance helps you to always act in the best interests of the business. More specifically, it can improve the performance of your business, help it become more stable and productive, and unlock new opportunities. It can reduce risks, and enable faster and safer growth. It can also improve reputation and foster trust.

Governance is the practice of the board of directors coming together to make decisions about the direction of the company. Duties such as oversight, strategic planning, decision-making and financial planning fall under governance activities.

Is your organisation participatory, consensus oriented, accountable, transparent, responsive, effective and efficient, equitable and inclusive and you follow the rule of law? Are processes of disclosure and transparency followed so as to provide regulators and shareholders as well as the general public with precise and accurate information about the financial, operational and other aspects of the company?

- Socially responsible decision-making and implementation.

- Investment - of corporate time/effort/funding.

- Employee benefits - profit sharing schemes, group insurance (health, dental, life etc..), disability income protection, retirement benefits, childcare, training, sick leave.

- Socially responsible initiatives - for communities/customers/employees/environment.

2.2.5 Policy

Companies have responsibilities to their workforce and to those consumers and customers to which they provide products. These responsibilities should be structured in clear, workable company policy. They should provide instruction and easy to understand, accurate information, using fair, transparent and helpful marketing information and contractual processes. They should also promote sustainable consumption and where possible, products and services that provide access to and cater for all, including the vulnerable and people with disabilities.

Do you have policies for equal opportunities, health and safety, well-being, diversity and inclusion, mental health support? Have staff benefitted? Can initiatives be expanded?

- Health and safety at work. Occupational health and safety.
- Diversity and Inclusion.
- Equal opportunities.
- Health - education, activities, counselling.
- Staff well-being - mental and physical health support.
- Family commitment - childcare subsidies, parental leave, carer facilities.
- Flexible working.
- Maternity and Paternity agreements.
- Volunteering days.
- Healthcare benefits, gym memberships etc.
- Customer care.
- Customer or consumer relationships.

2.2.6 Supporting Information for the Workplace Pillar

2.2.7 Conditions of work and social protection

Conditions of work include;

- Fair wages and other forms of compensation
- Working time and rest periods
- Holidays allowance and pay
- Fair disciplinary and dismissal practices
- Proper maternity protection
- Proper sanitation
- Provision of canteens
- Access to medical services
- Allowing observance of national or religious traditions and customs
- Respecting the family responsibilities of workers by providing parental leave and, when possible, childcare
- Any other facilities that can help workers achieve a proper work-life balance.

2.2.8 Health and safety at work

The highest degree of physical, mental and social welfare of an organisation's workers and prevention of harm caused by working conditions must be promoted and maintained.

Workers must be protected from risks to health and the occupational environment should be adapted to the physiological and psychological needs of workers.

It should also be noted that pollution and other workplace hazards such as waste may also have negative impacts on communities and the environment.

Issues over dangerous equipment, processes, practices and substances (chemical, physical and biological) should be addressed.

The financial and social burden on society of environmental issues such as pollution and hazardous waste disposal, work-related illness, injuries and death is heavy.

2.2.9 Staff development and training in the workplace

This includes the process of expanding people's choices by widening human capabilities and functioning. To be educated t and to have a satisfactory quality of life, therefore enabling people to lead long and healthy lives.

Organisations can use initiatives to increase social development by addressing important social concerns, such as fighting discrimination, balancing family responsibilities, promoting health and well-being and improving the diversity of their workforces.

They can also use workplace training and initiatives to expand the employability of individuals. Experiences, competencies and qualifications all increase an individual's capacity to secure and retain satisfactory employment.

2.2.10 Human rights

Organisations have a responsibility to act with due diligence to identify and prevent actual or potential human rights issues that result from their own practises or the practises of those with which they are engaged.

Organisations also have a responsibility to influence the behaviour of others, if there is cause for concern over human rights violations in which the organisation may or may not be implicated.

Organisations should take a positive and constructive view of diversity among the people with whom it employs and interacts. It should consider the gains for its own operations in terms of the value added by the full development of human resources and relations.

The following are examples of specific groups together with specific related expectations:

Gender

Policy and activities of an organisation should promote the equal treatment of all genders in the political, social and economic arenas.

People with disabilities

Organisations should ensure that men and women with disabilities are not discriminated against. That they are accorded dignity, autonomy and full participation in society. Organisations must also consider making reasonable provisions for access to buildings, amenities and facilities.

Migrants

Organisations must uphold the rights of migrant workers and should contribute to promoting a climate of respect for migrants and their families.

Race

Organisations should ensure that people are not discriminated against because of their race, cultural identity and/or ethnic origin.

2.2.11 Consumer issues

Companies have responsibilities to those consumers and customers to which they provide products.

These responsibilities include providing instruction and good quality, accurate information, using fair, transparent and helpful marketing information and contractual processes. They should also promote sustainable consumption and where possible design products and services that provide access and cater to all including the vulnerable and disadvantaged.

2.2.12 Consumer data protection and privacy

You must follow rules on data protection if your business stores or uses personal information. This applies to information kept on staff, customers and account holders.

You must make sure the information is kept secure, accurate and up to date. When you collect someone's personal data you must tell them who you are and how you'll use their information, including if it's being shared with other organisations.

You must also tell them they have the right to:

- See any information you hold about them and correct it if it's wrong.

- Request that their data is deleted.

- Request that their data is not used for certain purposes.

General Data Protection Regulation

The EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is a pan-European data protection law, which superseded the EU's 1995 Data Protection Directive and all member state law based on it, including the UK's DPA 1998 (Data Protection Act 1998), on 25 May 2018.

The GDPR extends the data rights of individuals (data subjects), and places a range of new obligations on organisations that process EU residents' personal data.

The DPA 2018 (Data Protection Act 2018) supplements the GDPR by filling in the sections of the Regulation that were left to individual member states to interpret and implement.

It also applies a "broadly equivalent regime" – known as "the applied GDPR" – to certain types of processing that are outside the GDPR's scope, including processing for law enforcement processes and by public authorities.

The GDPR will be enacted in UK law after Brexit under section 3 of the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018.

Organisations will help to maintain their reputation, credibility and the confidence of consumers by adhering to GDPR best practises when using and protecting consumer data.

2.3 Community Pillar

It is widely accepted today that organisations have a relationship with the communities in which they operate. This relationship should be based on community involvement which in turn, contributes to community development. Healthy and prosperous communities ultimately, strengthen the civil society upon which we all rely to live our most fulfilling lives.

An organisation's community involvement should arise out of recognition that every organisation is a stakeholder in the community, sharing common interests.

An organisation's contribution to community development will help to promote higher levels of well being in the community. Such development leads to the improvement in the quality of life of a population.

Community development is not a linear process. It is a long-term process in which different and conflicting interests will be present. Historical and cultural characteristics make each community unique and influence the possibilities of its future.

Organisations can also contribute through social investments in wealth and income creation through local economic development initiatives, expanding education and skills development programmes, promoting and preserving culture and the arts and providing or promoting community health services.

Community development may include institutional strengthening of the community, through involvement with groups and collective forums, cultural, social and environmental programmes and local networks involving multiple institutions.

Community involvement is an organisation's proactive outreach to the community. It is aimed at preventing and solving problems, fostering partnerships with local organisations and stakeholders and aspiring to be a good 'corporate citizen'.

2.3.1 Engagement

Community engagement describes an organisation's proactive outreach to their community. Engagement helps to mitigate issues and problems, foster partnerships with local organisations and stakeholders and aspire to be a good 'corporate citizen'. Organisations contribute to their communities through their participation in and support for civil institutions and through involvement in networks of groups and individuals that constitute civil society.

Community engagement is a long-term process in which different and conflicting interests are present. Historical and cultural characteristics make each community unique and influence the possibilities of its future. An organisation's contribution to community development will promote higher levels of well being and facilitate improvement in the quality of life of a population.

Community engagement may include institutional strengthening of the community, its groups and collective forums, cultural, social and environmental programmes and local networks involving multiple institutions.

What type of community engagement? What level commitment to do you have? How long have you been involved? What kind of support do you offer? Do you provide volunteering, sponsorship, financial giving, partnerships etc? Can engagement be expanded?

- Do you actively engage with wider community issues? These could be social enterprise schemes, national or international education initiatives, arts initiatives, or sporting endeavours or events.

- What kind of support does your organisation offer?
- Do you provide volunteering, sponsorship, financial giving, partnerships etc?
- Do the projects you support provide Impact reporting on your involvement?
- Can you provide evidence of support through supporting literature, press releases etc..

2.3.2 Local Issues

It is important for organisations to be active in the local communities in which they exist. Local issues often directly affect your workforce and their families and friends so can be instrumental in forming close relationships with and supporting staff. People are often strongly motivated by seeing the benefits that their activities are having. Supporting local projects can provide as much benefit to your organisation as to the cause you are supporting.

Do you prioritise local issues? Have local communities or areas benefitted? Can you provide evidence of support through literature, press releases etc? Can local engagement be expanded?

- Does your organisation support a local community project? This could include supporting community hubs, playgrounds, libraries, social enterprise schemes, social housing, community farms, litter schemes, landscape and green spaces, community recycling initiatives, local arts groups, support to schools and colleges, support to local sporting activities etc.
- What level commitment to do you have?

- How long have you been involved?

- What kind of support does your organisation offer?

- Do you provide volunteering, sponsorship, financial giving, partnerships etc?

- Do the projects you support provide Impact reporting on your involvement?

- Can you provide evidence of support through supporting literature, press releases etc..

2.3.3 Wealth Creation

Community engagement can provide benefits through social investments in wealth and income creation through local economic development initiatives; expanding education and skills development programmes; promoting and preserving culture and arts; providing and/or promoting community health services.

Organisations can contribute positively to wealth and income creation through entrepreneurship programmes, development of local suppliers, and employment of community members, as well as through wider efforts to strengthen economic resources and social relations that facilitate economic and social welfare or generate community benefits.

Competitive and diverse enterprises and co-operatives are crucial in creating wealth in any community. Organisations can help to create an environment in which entrepreneurship can thrive, bringing lasting benefits to communities.

Do you contribute to the local economy through trade and jobs? Do you provide, sponsorship, pro bono or financial giving? Can financial or pro bono contributions be expanded?

- What level commitment to do you have?

- How long have you been involved?

- What kind of support does your organisation offer?

- Can you provide evidence of support through supporting literature, press releases etc..

2.3.4 Projects & Groups

A community project is a term applied to any community-based project. This covers a wide variety of different areas within a community or a group of networking entities. Projects can cover almost anything, including the most obvious section of concern to any community, the welfare element.

A community group is a group of people who work for the benefit of the public. Community groups may follow a set structure and adopt principles and codes of conduct which it wishes the community to follow.

Types of community involvement include;

Community Building - Projects that intentionally bring people together to simply get to know one another.

Community Education - Projects that provide instructional services or curricula, or serve to educate the public about a social issue (in a non-partisan way).

Community Organising - Projects that bring people together with the goal of solving a community issue.

Deliberative Dialogue - Projects that intentionally bring people together to build understanding across differences.

Direct Service - Projects that provide a service or product to an individual, group, or the community as a whole.

Economic Development - Projects that work on developing the regional economy in a sustainable way.

Engaged Research - Research that directly benefits the community by clarifying the causes of a community challenge, mapping a community's assets, or contributing to solutions to current challenges.

Institutional Engagement - Educational or health resources intentionally offered without undue barriers to the community.

Are you involved with any specific community projects and groups?

- What level commitment to do you have?
- How long have you been involved?
- What kind of support does your organisation offer?
- Do you provide volunteering, sponsorship, financial giving, partnerships etc?
- Do the projects you support provide Impact reporting on your involvement?
- Can you provide evidence of support through supporting literature, press releases etc.

2.3.5 Education

Organisations that support schools give their employees a perfect outlet for volunteer work. Providing internships to local college or university students can create a valuable supply of future workers.

Companies have sometimes played a very important role in education. Vocational education and training and work-based learning are two of the most common practices that businesses are adopting.

Are you engaged with any education providers in your area? Do you provide work experience placements, apprenticeships or recruit directly from local schools or colleges? Can engagement be expanded?

- What level commitment to do you have?
- How long have you been involved?
- What kind of support does your organisation offer?

2.4 Philanthropy Pillar

There is a very long tradition of businesses donating money, goods or staff time to charitable causes, all of which falls under the umbrella of philanthropy. It's becoming increasingly popular for businesses to support charities, whether that is through donating money, fundraising or volunteering. This is with good reason as not only does charity work allow you to help those around you but it can also benefit your business greatly.

According to the Charities Aid Foundation, 51% of British adults would be more inclined to buy a product or use a service from a company that donates to charitable causes. So by presenting your company in a positive light and showing your community that you truly care about them, you will develop a great reputation that is likely to pay off in the long run.

Sharing impact reporting that shows how charities have benefited from your support also gives those charities the benefit of your marketing channels. So it is important to communicate with the charities you support and build a relationship that continues to add value to your reputation.

Philanthropy Activities List - Overview

2.4.1 Charitable Involvement

In plain words charitable giving can be defined as an act of giving money, time or some goods to unlucky or inopportune people, directly or through a worthy cause like a charitable trust.

A charity is an organisation whose primary objectives are philanthropy and social well-being (e.g. educational, religious or other activities serving the public interest or common good).

The legal definition of a charitable organisation (and of charity) varies between countries and in some instances regions of the country. The regulation, the tax treatment, and the way in which charity law affects charitable organisations also varies. Charitable organisations may not use any of their funds to profit individual persons or entities.

Do you provide support for any local, national or international charities? How long have you been involved? How have the charities benefitted? Do the charities you support provide impact reporting?

- Does your organisation have a policy for charities?
- Do your staff choose to get involved with the charities that you support?

- Do you communicate your support to your staff, customers and the wider pubic audience?
- Do you promote your support in your literature, website and via your social media channels?
- What level of commitment to do you have?
- How long have you been involved?

2.4.2 Volunteering

People choose to volunteer for a variety of reasons. For some it offers the chance to give something back to the community or make a difference to the people around them.
For others it provides an opportunity to develop new skills or build on existing experience and knowledge. Do you provide and/or facilitate volunteering support for any local, national or international charities?

- How long have you been involved?
- How have the charities benefitted?
- What level of commitment to do you have?
- Do your staff choose to get involved with the charities that you support?

2.4.3 Pro Bono

Pro bono is short for the Latin phrase pro bono publico, which means "for the public good." Pro bono work involves providing free services, rather than cash or goods, to those in need.

Pro bono work is services, advice or representation provided free of charge by professionals in the public interest. This can be to individuals, charities or community groups who cannot afford to pay for legal help and cannot get legal aid or any other means of funding.

Do you provide and/or facilitate Pro Bono support for any local, national or international charities?

- How long have you been involved?
- How have the charities benefitted?
- What level of commitment to do you have?
- Do your staff choose to get involved with the charities that you support?

2.4.4 Fund-raising

Fund-raising is the process of seeking and gathering voluntary financial contributions by engaging individuals, businesses, charitable foundations, or governmental agencies.

Fund-raising can include participating in or the organisation of events, online donations, in person solicitation, phone solicitations, text-to-give and crowd-funding. Traditionally, fundraising has consisted mostly of asking for donations through face-to-face interaction.

Do you provide and/or facilitate any charitable giving, fund raising or sponsorship support for any Local, national or international charities?

- How long have you been involved?
- How much has been raised?
- What level of commitment to do you have?
- Do your staff choose to get involved with the charities that you support?

2.4.5 Financial Gifts/Gifts In Kind

A financial gift is money that one entity gives to another while receiving nothing in return.

An in-kind donation is the transfer of any other type of asset. In-kind gifts are contributions of goods or services, other than cash grants. Examples of in-kind gifts include: Goods, like computers, software, furniture, and office equipment, for use by an organisation or for special event auctions.

Do you provide and/or facilitate financial or other types of gifts for any Local, national or international charities?

- How much/what has been gifted?
- How have the charities benefitted?
- Do your staff choose to get involved with the charities that you support?

2.5 United Nations
Sustainable Development Goals

What is the UN - SDG?

The 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are the world's best plan to build a better world for people and our planet by 2030. Adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, the SDGs are a call for action by all countries - poor, rich and middle-income - to promote prosperity while protecting the environment. They recognise that ending poverty must go hand-in-hand with strategies that build economic growth and address a range of social needs including education, health, equality and job opportunities, while tackling climate change and working to preserve our ocean and forests.

The United Nations system plays a critical role in supporting member states' implementation of inter-governmentally agreed sustainable development objectives. System-wide coherence at global, regional, sub-regional and country levels is crucial for the UN system to deliver on its mandates effectively.

Stakeholders

Major Groups and other Stakeholders (MGoS) were integral to the development and adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Since its adoption, MGoS have been actively working towards its implementation, through projects, initiatives, advocacy, knowledge-sharing, and monitoring of the 2030 Agenda. MGoS often work in partnership with other sectors, including governments. Stakeholder groups are as follows;

- Business & Industry
- Children & Youth
- Farmers
- Indigenous Peoples
- Local Authorities
- Non-Governmental Organisations
- Scientific & Technological Community
- Women
- Workers & Trade Unions
- Persons With Disabilities
- Volunteers
- Ageing
- Education And Academia

Partnerships

The achievement of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Sustainable Development Goals will require all hands on deck. It will require different sectors and actors working together in an integrated manner by pooling financial resources, knowledge and expertise. In our new development era with 17 intertwined Sustainable Development Goals and 169 associated targets as a blue-print for achieving the sustainable Future We Want, cross sectoral and innovative multi-stakeholder partnerships will play a crucial role for getting us to where we need by the year 2030.

  Has sufficient environmental, social and financial evidence been provided?

- Degree of Originality / Innovation -
  Does the application demonstrate new or novel solutions to problems?

- Future Expansion of Activity -
  Does the application demonstrate how you intend to develop activity?

- Replicability -
  Can others adopt activity / procedures for their own benefit?

As a minimum requirement, we expect all applicants to follow statutory requirements and to meet all relevant national and international legislation.

3.2 Beginning Your Accreditation application

Conduct a CSR Review

The process of achieving a CSR Accreditation is fundamentally your own assessment of every aspect of your organisation's socially responsible activities. All applicants submit an application based on the Four Pillars and are scored by three members of our Independent Assessment Panel using the Assessment Guidance Notes & Criteria.

The best way to begin your application is by conducting a comprehensive review of all the activities, actions, policies, structures and support for causes and community your organisation has undertaken and/or has in place. All activity which can be regarded as responsible business practice or that has benefited the environment or the local or wider community is relevant to your application.

Make time to sit down and review your CSR activities. You will doubtless need to liaise with colleagues and various departments that will have vital information that you should collect, collate and categorise into the Four Pillars. You can then decide from your collected information what will be used as evidence. Make sure you involve relevant parties such as your facilities manager, HR or accounts if applicable.

If your organisation already has a CSR policy or Social Impact Report in place, this can be used as a starting point for your application. If not, your application forms the groundwork of an ongoing measurable CSR policy and the content for a Social Impact Report.

Core Business Purpose and CSR Activity

It is important that your application demonstrates CSR activity that goes beyond the core purpose of your business. For example, if your core purpose is doing anything included in our Four Pillars list then this would not be considered as part of your CSR endeavours.

Make sure you show how you incorporate social responsibility into your business strategy. Identify the relevant issues, organisational context, conditions, resources and stakeholder interests.

Please use the provided application Word document

We have created a Word application document for use when compiling your application. The document structures the information in a uniform way required by our independent assessment panel and we encourage you to keep a master version of your application for future reference. It is also a good idea to keep all your evidence with the application. If you do not have a copy of this Word document please download here

3.3 Top Tips for Sole Traders and Micro Business

Applying for CSR accreditation for a Sole Trader or micro business is achieved through practical and simple action.

Sole traders and micro-businesses often feel that their actions or contributions are only small and do not count, but this is not the case. Sole traders and micro business make up a huge part of the overall business landscape and can make an enormous difference collectively through direct action. They can also have an important influence on their supply chains.

Sole traders and micro-businesses can offer socially responsible solutions to their clients and also buy goods and services with social responsibility in mind.

It is estimated that pulling together information for your Accreditation application will take 1-2 days. Collate evidence under the four pillars of Environment, Workplace, Community and Philanthropy.

It is accepted by the independent assessment panel that evidence under some Pillars will be stronger than others. As a sole trader or micro business you may not need to have the same policies and procedures as a larger organisation or the same influence, presence and purchasing power. You will not be scored down as a result.

Accreditation fee payments can be made annually over the three year Accreditation cycle to allow sole traders and micro-businesses to spread and more easily absorb costs.

3.4 Top Tips for SME's

Applying for CSR Accreditation for an SME is achieved through practical, simple and efficient action, and is not complex or expensive. You should allow between one and three days depending on your organisation's size.

SME's being more flexible due to their size, provide particularly good opportunities for social responsibility. They are generally less rigid in terms of organisational management, often have close contact with local communities, and senior management usually has a more immediate influence on the organisation's activities.

An SME should address and monitor the impacts of its decisions and activities on society and the environment in a way that takes account of both the size of the organisation and its impacts.

Take into account that reviewing, reporting and other processes may be more flexible and informal for SME's than for larger organisations, provided that appropriate levels of transparency are preserved.

Be aware that when reviewing all Four Pillars and identifying the relevant activities, the organisation's own context, conditions, resources and stakeholder interests should be taken into account, recognising that all Four Pillars but not all activities will be relevant for every organisation.

Focus at the outset on the CSR activities and impacts that are of greatest significance to sustainable development. An SME should also have a plan to address on-going development and expansion.

Seek assistance from parties such as managers, relevant third parties and other stakeholders to help pull together the appropriate information.

Identify where working with other organisations as part of their CSR activity provides a collective impact such as raising awareness on issues of social responsibility and good practice.

Always include evidence, audits, impact reporting, testimonials and other documentation where possible.

3.5 Top Tips for Large Business

Applying for CSR Accreditation for a large business must include input from multiple departments who will have access to data, targets and evidence of progress.

Nominate one person who is responsible for collating all information and arrange either a group meeting with key people or individual meetings to review the application questions and discuss how best to bring together all relevant information.

Consider what the Accreditation application will cover in terms of subsidiary businesses, satellite sites or depots.

Group policies covering multiple sites can be used and specific examples from a variety of sites can then be submitted as evidence.

Some information will be relevant under more than one Pillar, particularly in the Community/Philanthropy sections - cross reference wherever applicable.

Reference existing audit reports, newsletters, web material wherever possible.

Consultation and review of draft applications can be arranged on request and for a fee. Please see our website for the latest products, services and fees.

3.6 Top Tips for Third Sector Organisations

Third sector organisations can use the CSR Accreditation to demonstrate their positive impact and to differentiate themselves when applying for funds and grants.

It is estimated that collating and formatting information for your Accreditation application will take 1-2 days.

Collate evidence corresponding to the Four Pillars of Environment, Workplace, Community and Philanthropy.

Some information will be relevant under more than one Pillar, particularly in the Community/Philanthropy sections - cross reference wherever applicable.

Reference existing audit reports, newsletters, web material wherever possible.

Consultation and review of draft applications can be arranged on request and for a fee. Please see our website for the latest products, services and fees.

It is accepted by the independent assessment panel that evidence under some Pillars will be stronger than others. As a Third Sector organisation, you may not need to have the same policies and procedures as a larger organisation or the same influence, presence and purchasing power. You will not be scored down as a result.

Payments can be made annually over the three year Accreditation cycle.

3.7 Top Tips for Environment

General

Use the Environment activity lists shown in Part 2 - The Four Pillars to help you identity what you are doing with regard to the Environment and its five sub categories.

You do not need to show activity in all the sub categories. Some areas may not be applicable to your organisation, the situation or circumstances in which you operate.

You may provide live links which the assessment panel can access but please ensure these links are functioning and remain live at least for the assessment period (2 weeks post the relevant assessment date).

The online application allows up to five evidence file uploads per Pillar. If this is not enough, you can combine multiple evidence files into a single document and/or create Zip files.

When recording your Environmental activity, provide detail such as:

- Objectives, targets and KPIs and your progress against these. Include details such as carbon foot-printing, waste statistics (% recycled), energy usage, reduced business mileage/fuel usage, buying recycled products, tree planting.

- Normalise data X/£million turnover – so improvements can be attributed to your efforts and not organisational growth.

- Demonstrate any environmental requirements you insist on to your supply chain.

- Evidence can include copies of green energy supplier certificates, electric vehicle charge points at your site, employee communications and poster campaigns, training and ISO certificates or similar external accreditations.

3.8 Top Tips for Workplace

General

Use the Workplace activity lists shown in Part 2 - The Four Pillars to help you identity what you are doing with regard to your Workplace and its five sub categories.

You do not need to show activity in all the sub categories. Some areas may not be applicable to your organisation, the situation or circumstances in which you operate.

You may provide live links which the assessment panel can access but please ensure these links are functioning and remain live at least for the assessment period (2 weeks post the relevant assessment date).

The online application allows up to five evidence file uploads per Pillar. If this is not enough, you can combine multiple evidence files into a single document and/or create Zip files.

When recording your Workplace activity, provide detail such as:

It is important to evidence your activities. Where possible provide not only company policies but evidence to demonstrate employees have been trained and the resulting data to show that the policies are effective. Examples may include:

- Objectives, targets and KPIs and your progress against them year on year.

- Training matrices to plan and track employer training skills.

- Information on diversity & inclusion policy, facility for employee volunteering.

- Campaigns and communications concerning health and well-being, financial advice, gender equality, LGBTQ+ and other social issues.

If you make efforts to go above and beyond legislation let us know the details. Do you provide more generous maternity pay, annual leave allowance and external verification such as IIP Investors In People, Disability Confident, UNSDGs etc.

3.9 Top Tips for Community

General

Use the Community activity lists shown in Part 2 - The Four Pillars to help you identity what you are doing with regard to Community and its five sub categories.

You do not need to show activity in all the sub categories. Some areas may not be applicable to your organisation, the situation or circumstances in which you operate.

You will find that there is some overlap with activities in the Community and Philanthropy Pillars. Activity in your community can often take on a philanthropic nature and vice versa, philanthropic activity will often have a positive effect in your community. For this reason it is accepted that some activities and evidence may be duplicated in these Pillars.

You may provide live links which the assessment panel can access but please ensure these links are functioning and remain live at least for the assessment period (2 weeks post the relevant assessment date).

The online application allows up to five evidence file uploads per Pillar. If this is not enough, you can combine multiple evidence files into a single document and/or create Zip files.

When recording your Community activity, provide detail such as:

- A Community Policy – your focus areas and commitments.

- Objectives, targets and KPIs and your progress against them year on year.

- Data of your organisation's inputs – what did you do when and where?

- Data on your organisation's outputs – how successful were your inputs, how many people attended an event (e.g. a school presentations, college projects, work placement programmes).

- Information related to the impacts of your activities – testimonials, photographs of events and achievements.

- If possible include a table totalling your activities and their respective values; in time spent, pro bono materials/services provided and financial donations or sponsorships.

3.10 Top Tips for Philanthropy

General

Use the Philanthropy activity lists shown in Part 2 - The Four Pillars to help you identity what you are doing with regard to Philanthropy and its five sub categories.

You do not need to show activity in all the sub categories. Some areas may not be applicable to your organisation, the situation or circumstances in which you operate.

You will find that there is some overlap with activities in the Community and Philanthropy Pillars. Activity in your community can often take on a philanthropic nature and vice versa, philanthropic activity will often have a positive effect in your community. For this reason it is accepted that some activities and evidence may be duplicated in these Pillars.

You may provide live links which the assessment panel can access but please ensure these links are functioning and remain live at least for the assessment period (2 weeks post the relevant assessment date).

The online application allows up to five evidence file uploads per Pillar. If this is not enough, you can combine multiple evidence files into a single document and/or create Zip files.

When recording your Philanthropy activity, provide detail such as:

- A Charity Policy if you have one – demonstrating your focus areas and commitment.

- Objectives, targets and KPIs and your progress against them year on year.

- Data of your organisation's inputs – what did you do when and where?

- Data on your organisation's outputs – how successful were your inputs, include information totalling your activities and their respective values; in time spent, pro bono materials/services provided and financial donations or sponsorships.

- Information related to the impact of your activities – testimonials, photographs of achievements – both from the causes you support and your own employees.

3.11 Composing Your Application & Compiling Your Evidence

If you do not already have a copy, download the Word application form from our website and use this document as a 'work in progress'. You can build your application over multiple sessions. The application process is designed to be approached as a 'blank canvas' exercise, in which you should include any information you feel relevant.

There are questions under each pillar to inspire and support your application but these are not designed to be limiting in any way.

The main body of the application should be succinct and summarise key points for each of the sub categories. You may bullet point where appropriate and refer to more detail in the supporting evidence.

Some information will be suitable under more than one pillar - cross reference wherever applicable.

Reference existing internal and external reports, audit findings, newsletters and web material wherever possible.

Collate evidence for each pillar under a corresponding appendix so that your final submission has four appendices (Appendix 1 Environment, Appendix 2 Workplace etc).

Consultation and review of a draft application can be arranged on request and for a fee - see https://csr-accreditation.co.uk/csr-accreditation-applications-fees/ for latest products and fees.

Upload your final application form to the website including any supporting evidence under each of the Four Pillars.

3.12 Completing the Application & Online Submission

Your Organisation's Details

The online application requires that you submit your organisation's details. This is necessary for process and admin reasons and ensures that all applications are collated correctly by our system.

Please also be aware that the way you input your organisation's name will be the way the name is displayed on your certification and Accreditation Mark.

Organisation Size/Type

You must tell us about the size or type of your organisation. Our price structure is organised around these criteria and will inform the fee you are charged for application.

Opt In Box

For essential GDPR reasons you must check our 'Opt In' box to proceed.

Upload the Completed Application Form

At this stage you should have completed your Word application form supplied along with this guidance document when you registered for Accreditation. Please tag the file name with your organisation's name before uploading.

Upload Your Supporting Evidence Documentation By Pillar

Upload any supporting documentation, links to online information or any other evidence of impacts and achievements. Please clearly title your supporting documentation and reference in your application text.

You are allowed up to five uploads per Pillar. If more are needed, either zip up multiple files or collate content into a single document.

We can accept files such as video sent using alternative methods on request.

Finishing and Submission

When you have uploaded all your supporting evidence please click the 'I'm not a Robot' box and submit.

Your application will be reviewed by 3 members of our independent Accreditation assessment panel. You will be notified of the results of your application within 2-3 weeks of assessment.

Acknowledgment & Assessment

You will receive an email that confirms we have received your application.

A separate email will be sent to you with an attached invoice for your Accreditation fee.

Your application will then be assessed by our independent assessment panel. Following assessment you will be notified of results within a two week period.

Failure to pay the application fee within the 30 day period may result in your Accreditation being withdrawn.

PART 4 - Appendix & Tools

4.0 Appendix & Tools

Contents

4.1 Using The Tools

CSR-A has introduced a standard system that provides a simple process where you can audit your organisation's socially responsible activity against the Four Pillars of environment, workplace, community and philanthropy.

PLEASE NOTE - PAGES 4 - 16 OF THIS SECTION ARE DESIGNED TO BE OUTPUT ON YOUR PRINTER.

Appendix 4.1 Activity Lists

We have included the activity lists for ease of reference.

Appendix 4.2 Matrix Tables

What are you already doing?
Auditing and Reporting

The Four Pillars activity lists will prompt your thinking on what activities you are doing or not doing in relation to each matrix. You may also identify practices that are not shown by the Four Pillars activity lists. Please include anything you consider relevant. Fill in these matrix tables as step one of your audit.

The four matrix questions are:

1. What are we already doing?

2. What are we doing that is not represented in the Four Pillars activity lists?

3. What could we be doing better?

4. What else could we be doing?

Appendix 4.3 Impact Audits

Identifying Impacts
Benchmarking & Recording

Using the Four Pillars matrix questions and the list of what your organisation is already doing you can select any activity and ask:

What internal impact has there been?

For example, if your organisation has a recycling policy this will have an internal impact with regard to waste reduction and staff engagement, better education and awareness around plastics and future resources.

What external impact has there been?

The external impact will be less landfill, environmental leadership and positive marketing and social media story telling.

What financial impact has there been?

For example, financial impacts will be reduced, zero landfill tax, reusing materials and products rather than buying new, reducing a 'disposable culture', enhanced staff satisfaction and retention, reduced costs for PR and marketing through positive story telling.

What PR impact is there likely to be?

The combined internal and external output generates positive story telling across all communication channels. With a subject matter such as recycling, there will be multiple story angles.

What key performance indicators are there?

The importance of understanding and measuring impact - key performance indicators:

KPIs are the critical (key) indicators of progress toward an intended result. KPIs provides a focus for strategic and operational improvement, create an analytical basis for decision making and help focus attention on what matters most.

Example

Pillar - Environment:

- Internal Impact
- External Impact
- Financial Impact
- PR Impact

- KPI's

Activity - Recycling:

- Staff Engagement
- Reduced Landfill
- Reduced Landfill Tax
- Positive Story
- Leadership
- Education
- Low Cost PR
- Raised Awareness

4.5 Further Considerations

4.5.1 Due diligence

Due diligence in the context of CSR Accreditation is a comprehensive, proactive process to identify the actual and potential social, environmental and economic positive impacts of an organisation's decisions, operations and activities.

Due diligence also entails influencing the behaviour of others, showing supporting documentation, collation of relevant evidence and information from colleagues and concise and accurate reporting.

4.5.2 Integrating the Four Pillars throughout an organisation

Building CSR into every aspect of an organisation involves commitment and understanding at all levels. In the early stages of an organisation's efforts, the focus of awareness should be on increasing understanding of the aspects of the Four Pillars, including principles, core subjects and issues.

Commitment and understanding should start at the top of the organisation. Understanding the benefits of CSR can play a major role in building the commitment of the organisation's leadership. Efforts should therefore be made to provide the leadership with a thorough understanding of the implications and benefits of social responsibility.

Track performance over time, this allows you to make necessary adjustments in priorities and approach.

4.5.3 Communication of your CSR policy and Accreditation

Most practices related to CSR will involve some form of internal and external communication. Communication is critical to many different functions in social responsibility including:

- Raising awareness both within and outside the organisation on its strategies and objectives, plans, performance and challenges for social responsibility.

- Demonstrating respect for the CSR principles

- Helping to engage and create dialogue with stakeholders.

- Showing how the organisation is meeting its commitments on social responsibility and responding to the interests of stakeholders and expectations of society in general.

- Providing information about the impacts of the organisation's activities, products and services, including details of how the impacts change over time.

Helping to engage and motivate employees and others to support the organisation's activities in CSR.

CSR Accreditation exists to enhance an organisation's reputation for socially responsible action, openness, integrity and accountability, to strengthen stakeholder trust in the organisation.

4.5.4 Reviewing and improving actions and practices related to CSR Accreditation

Effective CSR performance depends in part on commitment, careful oversight, evaluation and review of the activities undertaken, progress made, achievement of identified objectives, resources used.

Ongoing monitoring or observation of activities related to social responsibility is primarily aimed at making sure that activities are proceeding as intended, identifying any crisis or out-of-the-ordinary occurrence, and making modifications to the way things are done.

Performance reviews at appropriate intervals, may be used to determine progress, help keep programmes well focused, identify areas in need of change and contribute to improved performance.

Stakeholders can play an important role in reviewing an organisation's performance on CSR.

In addition to reviewing existing activities, an organisation should also keep abreast of changing conditions or expectations, legal or regulatory developments affecting social responsibility and new opportunities for enhancing its efforts on social responsibility.

4.6 Conditions

4.6.1 Eligibility for Accreditation

The CSR Accreditation scheme is available to any private, public or third sector organisation which can demonstrate a measurable 12 month period of CSR activity.

Any organisation may apply for CSR Accreditation, no matter how such organisation is legally structured, whether it be an incorporated business, a sole trader, partnership, public or third sector organisation.

The applicant may apply for CSR Accreditation under the scheme in respect of its entire organisation, a particular site within the organisation or a specific division of the organisation.

4.6.2 Accreditation process

CSR Accreditation is based on an assessment of an organisation's full range of CSR activity and will require evidence that the management is capable of maintaining acceptable standards during the period of Accreditation.

Accreditation under the scheme for such organisations is conditional upon:

1. A successful audit of the policies and structures regarding responsible business practice that the applicant has in place.

2. Meeting the required compliance level.

3. The applicant paying the specified CSR Accreditation application fee.

All organisations will undergo a first level of scrutiny at the application review stage and then the Accreditation Panel assesses the organisation against the Guidance Notes. The full report is then considered by the Accreditation panel which decides to award, defer or refuse Accreditation.

4.6.3 Accreditation cycle

Accreditation by the CSR-A scheme is valid for three years. Accredited organisations are notified six months before the end of the Accreditation period so that an inspection can be arranged and the renewed report presented to the Accreditation panel for consideration of re-Accreditation before the period ends.

4.6.4 Assessment process

A full assessment is arranged following successful completion of the online application process. An independent assessment panel with appropriate experience for the organisation being inspected will come together every 10 weeks to assess applications. The independent assessment panel will be comprised of industry experts representing private, public and third sector. The inspection will reflect the breadth and size of the organisation's CSR activity.

The CSR Accreditation process assesses best in class corporate social responsibility and examines leadership, policies, practices, performance, and impact in areas such as:

- Employee Engagement
- Customer Service
- Innovation
- Supply Chain Management
- Environmental Practices
- Community and Charity Engagement
- CSR Communications

Your application will be reviewed by our independent CSR assessment panel.

Your organisation will receive an overall score. Applications must score above 50% for bronze, 65% for silver and 80% for gold. The assessment guidance notes (3.1) provide a guide as to what the assessment panel is expecting from applicants.

Once the assessment has taken place, the independent assessment panel will confirm if your company has or has not satisfied the criteria to achieve the CSR Accreditation.

Applicants for CSR Accreditation guarantee that all information given is complete, true and accurate to the best of their knowledge.

4.6.5 Accreditation statements and marks

Organisations which have been awarded CSR Accreditation may use the CSR Accreditation mark and statements in their promotional materials, subject to certain conditions. (See CSR Accreditation guidelines supplied upon successful CSR Accreditation).
